HOW KEMMLER DIED.

Electrodution" Not Wholly a Success.

Shocks Required to Extinguish the Last Spark of Life.

The Doomed Murderer Meets His Fate with Wonderful Courage.

An Appailing Scene When the Victim Began to Return to Con-sciousness After the First Shock.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 6 .- The trial of a new means of taking human life, while prompted by humane motives, has resulted in a sickening spectacle presented by a pinioned wretch, at whose vital center was kept pounding for some moments an alternating current of electricity which, though it ultimately destroyed his life, subjected the criminal to a torture of which no living being has knowledge, and which none can describe. Imperfect registry of the current pressure or faulty con tact of the electrodes prevented instantaneous death. The reader may gain some conception of the process of this killing when the statement is made that the person whose body should be shaken into fragments could not have suffered such pain as did Kemmler, whose nerve cells and tissues were disintegrated not in a flash, as designed, but by the relatively slow strokes of the electric hammers upon them. Whether the blood yet retains its normal consistency or whether it is partially or wholly fluidized by the divorce of oxygen from the blood corscles, can only be determined by the sutopey.

With the conclusion of the speech he turned his back on the jury, took off his coat and handed it to the warden. This disclosed the fact that a hole had been cut from the band of the trousers down, so as to expose the base of the spine. When the coat was off Kemmler turned in the direction of the door through which he came into the room, and began to unbutton his vest; at the same time the warden drawing the interfering drapery of his shirt through the hole in his pants and cutting it off, so as to leave a little surface of the flesh against which one of the elec-

Warden Duston called attention to the fact that it was not necessary to re-move the vest, and Kemmler calmly

SUFFERED NO PAIN.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 6.-After there remained no doubt that the current had done its fatal work, Dr. Fell, said, "Well, there's no doubt about one thing; the man never suffered an iota of pain." In after consultations other physicians expressed the same belief. It was some mitigation of the horrors of the situation to believe

Some doctors disagreed with this view, and doubted his death when his chest moved and sounds issued from his lips.

THE AUTOPSY. The autopsy began at 9 o'clock. It was found when the body was spread out on the table that very severe rigor mortis had set in. There was little relaxation, and it was with difficulty that the corpse was straightened out. On examination it was found the second electrode burned through the skin and into the flesh at the base of the spine, making a scar nearly five inches in diameter. The heart, lungs and other organs were taken out and found in good healthy condition, and will be preserved for future examina-tion. The brain also was taken out. It, too, will be examined.

thumbscrew which held back the chair in place and began to lower it so that the rubber cap which had the saturated sponge pressed against the top of Kemmler's head.

THE DOOMED MAN'S NERVE.

THE DOOMED MAN'S NERVE.

The warden assisted in holding Kemmler's head. Kemmler said, "Oh, you had better press that down, partner, I guess; press that down." So the head piece was unciamped and pressed further down. While it was being done Kemmler said, "Well, I want to do the best I can; I can't do any better than that."

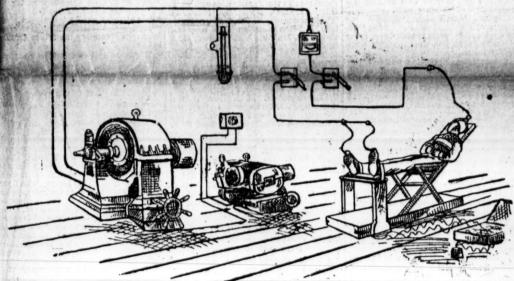

Warden Durston took in his hand the leather harness which was to be adjusted to Kemmler's head. It was a muzzle of broad leather straps, which went across the forehead and chin. The top of the strap pressed down against the nose of Kemmler until it flattened it down slightly over his face. The hardown slightly over his face. The harness was put in place, Dr. Spitzka who was atanding near the chair, said: God bless you, Kemler, and the condemned man answered, "Thank you." Softly the door leading into the room where the switches were arranged was partly opened and a man stood in the doorway. Beyond him there were two other men. Which one of them was to touch the lever and make the connection with the chair was not known. Warden Durston said it never will be known. The dynamo in the machineshop was running at good speed and the voltmeter on the wall showed a little more than 100 volts. The warden turned to the assembled doctors and those immediately around the execution chair and said: "Do the doctors say it is all right?" Hardly a minute had elapsed since the adjustment of the straps. There was no time for Kemmler to have weakened then, if his marvelous courage had not been equal to the test of further delay, but there was no fear that he would lose courage. He was as firm in the chair as before he entered the room.

THE FIRST SHOCK.

The Execution Room.

WONDERFUL NERVE. Kemmler's nerve was something wonderful. He never faltered. He moderation to secure perfect safety. The shock was given at 6:43½, and was continued about 18 seconds. Two ainutes after the current was cut off there was evidence of respiration. As soon as possible the current was returned and then cut off. Again respiration was evident, after a few moments. Saliva came from the mouth; the chest heaved; there was wheezing in the throat. The shock was again put to the prisoner, who, the doctors remarked, was unconscious from the moment of the first shock. After a short time smoke appeared at the base; his

FLESH WAS BURNING. The spectacle was most trying. The man, the doctors said, suffered no pain, however. The warden says the voltage at first shock was 1800 volts which run down to a point not named. After a third contact of four minutes the man was declared dead. The warden's certificate of death was then signed by all present and the party broke up at 7:30 to meet at 8:15, when the body would be ready for the au-

When the mask was taken off the face the eyes were found half open, and his expression, while not normal or placid, was not borrifying.

TAKING THE CHAIR—KEMMLER MAKES A SPEECH.

Warden Durston stood at the left of the chair with a hand on the back of it. Almost at the moment Kemmler took his seat he began to speak in quick, short periods. "Now, gentle-men," he said, "this is William Kemmler. I have warned him he has got to die, and if he has anything to say he will say it." As the warden finished, Kemmler looked up, and in a high voice, without any hesitation, and as though he had prepared himself with the speech: "Well, I wish every one good luck in this world, and I think I am going to the good place. The pa-pers have been saying lots of stuff that isn't so. That's all I have to ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

straps had been adjusted about the body the arms were fastened down and then the warden leaned over and parted Kemmler's feet so as to bring the legs near the legs of the chair. While the straps were being arranged, Kemmler said: "Take your time. Don't be in a hurry. Be sure every thing is all right." Two or three times he repeated these words. mark that it would not hurt him; that he (Durston) would be with him all through, but it was not fear that Kemmier felt, it was rather a certain pride in the exactness of the experiment. He seemed to have greater interest in its success than those who had made preparations for it, who were watching its progress, and its final fatal conclusion.

When the strap had been adjusted the warden placed his hand on Kemmler's head and held it against the rubber cushion which ran over the back of the chair. Kemmler's eyes were turned to the other side of the room. Before, they had followed the warden in his movement about. Then the doomed man made a few remarks in a perfectly clear, composed tone of voice: "Well good luck" was one of them, and, "Durston, see that things are all right" was another, Vieling unfastened the

At the warden's request Dr. Fell stepped forward with a long syringe in his hand and deftly wetted two sponges which were at the electrodes, Scene.

AUBURN (N. Y.) Aug. 6—[By the Associated Press.]—Kemmler sat down in the electric chair as quietly as though he was sitting down to dinner. Warden Durston stood on the right and George Vieling, of Albany, on the left. They began immediately to adjust the straps, the condemned holding up his arms so as to give them every assistance. When the straps had been adjusted about the body the arms were fastened down and parted Kemmler's feet so as to bring the legs near the legs of the chair.

While the straps were being arranged, was centified by straps and springs frame in the chair. A spasm went over Kemmler from head to foot. He was confined by straps and springs that held him so firmly that no limb or other part of the body stirred more than a small fraction of an inch from its resting place. The twitching that the muscles of the face underwent gave it for a moment an expression of psin, but no cry escaped from the lips; which were free to move at will, no spund came forth to suggest that consciousness lasted more than the infinitisimal fraction of a second—beyond the calculation of human mind. The body remained in a riged position for seventeen seconds. The jury and witnesses who remained soated up to this moment came hurriedly forward and surrounded the chair. There was no movement of the body beyond the first convulsion. It was not a pretty sight, the man in his shirt sleeves bound hand and foot, body and even head, with the heavy frame work pressing down on top of the skull.

If McDenald held a stop watch in his band and as the seconds flew by he notled their passage. Spitzka looked at the stop watch and as the tenth second expired he cried out "Stop!" other voices cried "Stop." The warden turned to the doorway, called out "Stop!" to the man at the lever. A quack movement of the arm and the electric current was switched off. There was a relaxation of the body in the chair. "He's dead," said Spitzka-calmly.

COMING BACK TO LIFE.

Dr. Balch was leaning over the body looking at the exposed skin, Suddenly he cried out sharply "Dr. McDonsid, see that rupture." In a moment llyrs. Spitzka and McDonaid had leant over and were looking where Balch was pointing at a little red spot on the hand that rested on the right arm of the chair. The index finger of the hand had curved backward as the

e Matter Settled by the Suspen-bion of the Captain Fifteen Days and the Patrolman Thirty.--Notes.

The Police Commissioners met at the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, with Mayor Hazard in the chair, and Commissioners Dexter, Collins, Bryson and Lewis present. Chief Glass was also in attendance as usual. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with, when the report of the Chief for the month of July, as heretofore published, was read and filed.

Officer Finucane preferred charges against Capt. Roberts for violation of the police regulations, growing out of the recent difficulty that occurred at the police station, the details of which have been heretofore published.

have been heretofore published.

A communication was also read from Chief Glass, stating that he had suspended Officer Finucane, as he considered that he had been guilty of insubordination. A statement was also read from Capt. Roberts, giving his version of the affair, which did not materially differ from the published report.

There being no material difference as to the facts, the Board proceeded to discuss the matter, and, after ageneral debate and verbal statement from the Chief, Capt. Roberts and Officer Finusers (or and while waiting Chief, Capt. Roberts and Officer Finu-cane were sent for, and while waiting the following transfers of saloon licenses were granted: Greer & Hantz, Nos. 105 and 107 San Pedro street, from Charles Schmidt, and Charles Gallmer, No 301 North Main street, from A. Lindenfelt.

The usual demands were presented and allowed.

The application of C. H. Buckingham for a position on the force was received and filed.

J. W. Davis, I. K. Adams and C. H. Boyce presented demands for services as special policemen in August last, which brought out a little piece of secreet history about the methods of the former Board, it being shown that the appointment of the men had been made at a private meeting in Mr. Lindlev's office, to "see that money was not ley's office, to "see that money was not used against the sewer bonds." Commissioner Collins voted that the de-mands be paid, but the motion failed for want of a second, and the matter or want of a second, and the matter was dropped.

Capt. Roberts, who had been sent for, then appeared and made a statement, but Officer Finucane could not be found, and, after a long debate, it was decided to take a vote.

Commissioner Bryson moved that both Capt. Roberts and officer Finucane assembled for fifteen days, when both Capt. Roberts and officer Finucane be suspended for fifteen days, when Commissioner Lewis moved to amend by making Finucan's suspension thirty days, and Robert's fifteen days.

A vote was taken, when Commissioner Lewis's amendment was lost, Mayor Hazard explaining his vote, and Commissioner Revsen's motion, was about Hazard explaining his vote, and Commissioner Bryson's motion was about to be put to a vote, when Officer Finucane appeared and made a statement, in which he admitted that he had accused Roberts of spitework.

Mayor Hazard then changed his vote, and Finucane was suspended thirty days and Roberts fifteon days, after a wordy debate, in which politics were freely touched on.

Commissioner Collins notified the Board that he had prepared an ordinance transferring two men from the foot men to the mounted force, and askedso have it indorsed, but the Board declined to act, and adjourned.

The Fire Commissioners. The Fire Commissioners met yes terday morning, with Mayor Hazard presiding and Commissioners Keefe, Kuhrts and Lovell present. The Chief presented requisitions for various supplies, and the same were approved. Engineer M. Curran was granted ninety days leave of absence. The Council was requested to purchase a chemical fire engine, and was also requested to purchase 2500 feet

Petitions for fire hydrants at various Petitions for fire hydrants at various points were referred to the Chief, as was also the petition of L. Pinney to be allowed to put in an engine at No. 2515 South Main street.

The Chief stated that the cost of moving the fire alarm from the sold to the new City Hall was $411.75, and the Council was requested to pay the same.

after which the Board adjourned

The Highbinder Held.

Loui Tung, the Chinese highbinder who assaulted and robbed a little hea who assaured and topod a mission then named Ah Sing, on Benjamin street, in broad daylight, a day or two ago, cutting him across the hand to accomplish his object, was yesterday examined before Justice Austin, and held to answer before the Superior Court with bail fixed at $3,000, in default of which Ting was agust to jail. As psual with bail fixed at $3,000, in default of which Tung was sent to jail. As usual in these Chinese cases, there has been a strong effort made to intimidate the complaining witness, and yesterday morning a gang of Chinamen threatened to kill Sing if he did not stop the prosecution. Sing complained at the police station, and on the promise of police protection went on the stand and testified.

Trains Delayed by Washouts in Arizona-Notes.

All of the trains from the East yesterday were from 9 to 12 hours late on account of washouts in Arizona. It was raining hard on the desert all day and late in the afternoon, the rain reached as far as Los Angeles. There was a light shower in this city, but at Colton and San Bernardino it rained quite hard. The Southern Pacific people expect to get their trains through all right today.

SANTA MONICA, August 6.—[Cor-respondence of THE TIMES] — The beach from the old wharf to way beyond the ninety-nine steps presents the appearance of a tented field, with its grand array of tents occupied by an enthusiastic army of pleasure-seekers from grandma with her silver-hair and gold spectacles to the little ones rolling about in the sand.

There are quite a number of fancy bathing suits here at present which filike the Jew's coat, like "the paper on the walt." Some of the skirts are so short it would puzzle a scientist to tell where the skirt was. They make an extremely taking suit for some ladies. Today when the first train arrived the depot grounds were thronged with anxious readers of THE TIMES who were eagerly waiting for their paper, but when it was ascertained that there were no papers on board they were much disappointed—but were soon cheered by the appearance of the cart with the papers, and they were all gone in a very few moments. The universal sentiment here is one of admiration for the pluck and determination shown by the proprietors of the press.

Good Sport Enjoyed by a Big Crowd.

FOUR WELL CONTESTED EVENTS

Applause, Larghetta, McKinney and Leonore the Winners.—The Best Trotting of the Meeting.

The card at yesterday's races was a light one and had to be filled out with a special, but the crowd of more than ordinary size at the track saw som good running and trotting. THE FIRST RACE, a seven-eighths of a mile stilling purse proved a comparatively easy victory for Billy Appleby's bay gelding Applause.

Billy Appleby's bay gelding Applause. There were but three of them in it, Applause, H.D. Miller's chestnut mare, Ida Gleun and Charles Kerr's black horse Jackson, carrying respectively 106, 105 and 109 pounds. In the pool box Applause had the call at $10 to $4 for Ida Glenn and $3 for Jackson.

The race was devoid of sensational features. Jackson went out to set the pace and led them to the middle of the second turn where they closed up and ran head and head to the middle of the straight, where Jackson gave it up. Ida Glenn got in front by a length, but at the draw gate the boy gave Applause his head and he won handily and by a good open length, Jackson three lengths away from Ida Glenn. Time, 1:28‡.

THE SECOND RACE

was an extra offer made up on account of the regular race failing to have a requisite number of starters. There were in it Matt Storn's Larghetta, Dr. Bryan's Moses B. and R. C. Donaleich's Naicho B. Larghetta carried 107 pounds, Naicho B. 115 and Moses B. 120. The distance was a mile and a sixteenth. In the pool box Naicho B. opened as favorite, but it soon settled down with all the starters going at the same figure, $10. It was a hot race and the best horse won. Moses B. went off in the lead from the fall of the flag, and when they straightened out around the turn it was Moses B. Larghetta and Naicho B., a length apart. In the backstretch Naicho moved up and ran alongside Moses B. with Larghetta at their heels. There was no change in the positions until they were well into the stretch, when Cook began working Larghetta and got him up to Moses B's shoulder. Moses managed to hold his lead to the drawgate when Larghetta pushed his head in front and in a driving finish won by a neck, Naicho B. three lengths away. Time 1:51.

THE THREE-YEAR OLD TROT. There were but two starters for the three-year old district trot, Richard Gird's chestnut gelding Alco and Charles Durfee's brown horse McKin-

Charles Durfee's brown horse McKinney. McKinney's already good name as a performer made him a hot favorite inthe pool box at $20 to 86 for Atco.

The first heat was a simple walk-out for McKinney. He led easily all the way and trotted smoothly under the way and trotted smoothly under the wire a length in front in 2:374. Alco made a slight skip at the wire. The second heat was arepetition of the first. McKinney winning in 2:421, Alco at his heels.

The third and concluding heat was

The third and concluding heat was won by McKinney, in the same hollow style, in 2:402. The winner is as good as 2:80 any time.

THE 2:25 CLASS TROT for a purse of $1000 was the last event of the day, with five starters, J. W. Robinson's bay mare, Lucy R. Charles Durfee's bay mare, Leonore, M. C. Aguirre's bay gelding, Geronimo, J. F. Dodson's brown mare, Duchess, and G. W. Stimpson's black horse Shamrock. Shamrock was going in the auction pools at $10, to $6 for Leonore, and $6 for the field. The betting was light. The patience of the crowd was wellnigh worn to tatters by the ineffectual scoring before they got the word. The start was a straggling one, and Duchess going into the turn put herself out of it. Lucy R. got tangled on the turn and put herself out also. Leonore took the lead and went off with Shamrock at the wheel and Geronimo three lengths back. In this order they trotted to the second turn, where Shamrock made two successive breaks and lost three lengths by it. In the home stretch he tangled again and went to pieces in a series of breaks, and Leonore, staying on her feet, trotted out five lengths abead of him in 2:26 Geronime was account. and Leonore, staying on her feet, trotted out five lengths ahead of him in 2:26. Geronimo was a poor third, and both Lucy R and Duchess got the flag.

There was a big chop in the pool-box;
Leonore's stock went up until she sold for two to one against the field. Walter Maben was put up behind Geronimo before the second heat and they got a good start on even terms, but Geron-imo broke as they entered the turn. Leonore took the lead as before and from there on the heat was much like the first. Shamrock hung on to Leo-nore's wheel until they got to the half and then he began to break again. The last quarter was trotted very fast, Shamrock trying to make up his lost ground, but he failed and Leonore trotted home two lengths in front of him in 2:25. Geronimo trotted the last half at a 2:20 clip and got home a fair third. a good start on even terms, but Ge third.

The last heat was trotted in nearly the same style. Leonore made her first break as she went into the turn, and Shamrock got a lead of three lengths, but before he got to the quarter pole he went off his feet and the mare caught him. They trotted together to the half, and Shamrock again tangled. The mare took her lead again and trotted on home two lengths in front of Shamrock in 2:29. It was the best trotting race of the third. It was the best trotting race of the meeting.

THE MYSTERY DEEPENS No New Light on the Dia-mond Robbery.

TALK WITH SECRETARY AVERY The Ownership of the Missing Jew els.—The Detectives Without a Clew as to the Thieves.

The California Loan and Trust Com pany mystery is growing more mysteri-ous day by day, and it is very certain that the detective police are up a stump. They have spent some days working on the case and are no nearer a solution than they were when they were just shown the safe and told that a lot of valuable jewelry had been

Mr. Hardesty, of the District Attorney's office, is anxious to solve the mystery, and declares that he will get at the bottom of it if he has to bring a trained criminal detective from one of the big Eastern cities to work the case up.

A TIMES reporter called at the office of the Trust Company in the Phillips block, yesterday afternoon, and made himself known to M. N. Avery, the secretary, who expressed a willingness to talk, after he had been assured that the police did not care to conceal the facts surrounding the case any longer. W. M. Sheldon, on the other hand, was quite anxious to keep the matter quiet, and made one or two trips to the Chief of Police in a vain effort to keep Mr. Avery from talking. This gentleman, who has an honest straightforward way about him, bears a good business reputation, and tells a story that will hardly be doubted if it becomes necessary for him to take the witness stand.

In brief, Mr. Avery's story is as

MR. AVERY'S STATEMENT.

"On the Saturday evening in question we had $500 in cash in the safe and some jewelry that was pledged to us. We had Mrs Croft's pin and ring and the diamond ear-rings that were placed in our hands by Mr. Carron. We loaned $500 on these ear-rings, which were put up with a $1000 note in favor of Mr. Carron, signed by two Wheelers and a personal note of Mr. Carron's for $500. I do not know what the diamonds are worth but they are fine stones and I considered the security good.

stones and I considered the security good.

"I was to go to Redondo Beach that evening, so I counted up the cash, placed it in the cash box and put the box in the burglar proof box of the safe. I placed the jewels in a separate drawer and locked the cash box. Wm. Sheldon locked the steel door and also the outside door of the safe. I left Mr. Sheldon and a clerk named Parke in the office and took the train for Redpado. I did not return to the office until Monday morning at 9 o'clock, when I met Mr. Sheldon. Young Sheldon opened the safe and took some papers out, I think, and then left the office. Shortly after that President Sheldon and myself opened the steel door and discovered that the safe had been robbed. I was thunder-struck, of course, and did not know what the thinky a investige. door and discovered that the safe had been robbed. I was thunder-struck, of course, and did not know what to think. An investigation was started at once, but I do not see that anything has been cleared up as far as we have gone. Young Sheldon and myself were out of town from Saturday evening until Monday morning. He was at Santa Monics and I spent the whole of the time at Redondo, and we discovered that their would be no trouble for us to establish these facts by winnesses. The other stockholders were in the city. President Sheldon attended church and at 12:45 he visited the office and opened the safe to get the description to some land from a deed, and at that time he is confident that the safe had not been robbed. He came to this conclusion on account of a key that always remains in the steel door when the safe is closed, and it was in its place on Sunday, but when we opened it Monday we found that the key had been locked. Now, as there are only two of these keys and the other one police detectives so that was one of the theories advanced. I do not like to suspect any of my associates but things look queer."

During the statement regarding the key that was found locked up in the safe Mr. Sheldon was very anxious to have Mr. Avery's statement just so and he became greatly excited several times.

It was learned later in the day that the fine diamond ear rings that were put in "hock" with the Wheeler Carron notes, belong to Mrs. W. A. Clinton. These were considered the finest stones in the city, and it was commonly rumored on the streets when Mr. Clinton presented them to his wife during boom times, that they cost 15,000 in San Francisco. However that may be the thief made a big shaul and had the detectives asked the San Francisco police to keep a lookout for the stones in the city the observer. The Sparrow Craze The Sparrow Craze.

INew York Tribune.

The sparrow craze, too; here it comes. Listen once. Thirty years ago somebody imported six pairs of English sparrows and housed them in Union Square, cunningly thinking they would, as it is written, crescit and multiplicaminate to the terror and extinction of the hateful inchworm that was wont, in the otherwise silent hours, to descend from every tree in all the town on the best new mustache of the spoony young man as he took the summer evening air with the adored of his waistcoat. How many times is it the offspring or upapring of the six would pay the national debt if sparrows were dollars? Now then, how are you going to kill all these flying billions, multiplier, multiplicand, product and all?

CHINESE MURDER TRIAL.

The case of Wong Gunn and three other Chinamen charged with the murder of Fong Ah Lung continued through the day yesterday before Judge McKinley in Department Six. Several Chinese witnesses were called for the defense. John Goldsworthy, surveyor, was called as an expert to detarmine in what position the murderer must have stood to have fired the fatal bullet. George Redding, a colored conchman, testified that he had seen the shooting. On cross examination he denied that he had been paid $50 by the defense for his testimony. The Sale of the San Jacinto Property Consummated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6. The sale of the San Jacinto tin property in San Bernadine county was completed today. The first payment was $850,000 cash, and the deed was delivered to the purchaser, the San Jacinto Estate Company of England. The property consists of nearly 50,000 acres south of Riverside in San Bernardino county. The English purchasers will spend about $300,000 in improving the property.

How Stanley Wrote His Book.

[How York Tribuse]

Stanley wrote his book with a great deal of method. Mr. Marston says in Scribner that the explorer's contains habit was to carry a "note-book, fifs inches, in his side-pocket; in this he penciled actes constantly and at every resting place. Of these note-books he has shown me six of about 100 pages each, closely packed with pencil memoranda. These notes, at times of longer leisure, were expanded into six larger volumes of about 200 pages each of very minute and clear writing in ink. In addition to these field notebooks and disries, there are two large quarto volumes, filled from cover to cover with calculations of astronomical observations," etc. Stanley's black attendant, Sali, learned to stay away from his master when the book was enchaining him. "One day he originated a new way of saving his head; he had a telegram to deliver, so he ingeniously fixed it on the end of a long bamboo, and, getting the door just ajar, he poked it into the room and bolted."

The Sun Never Sets on the United States.

The Sun Never Sets on the United States.

[Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson.]

"By the way it was first called to my notice while West, by a study of the latitudes and longitudes on the coast, that the sun never sets on the United States. That has been called the glory of Great Britain, and was immortalized in one of the speeches of Daniel Webster. Now it is the glory of our own country, too. Since the purchase of Russian America the farthest Aleutian island, stretching out toward Japan is as far west of San Francisco as Eastport, Maine, is east of San Francisco as Eastport, Maine, is east of San Francisco as Eastport, Maine, is east of San Francisco as Handle of the coast of San Francisco. If you will look at the map you will see that our Republic extends through 196° of longitude, or more than half way around the world. When the sun sets on the Aleutian Island it is an hour high on American citizens of the Republic It was the Republican party in its thoughtful regard of the country and its destiny that thus placed San Francisco in the center of the Republic east and west, instead of being on the extreme verge of the western border. The possibilities of Alaska are wonderful, Already it has repaid to us more than it cost, and thousands of millions more lie in its mineral wealth and fisheries."

How to Write an Advertisement

How to Write an Advertisement [Staten Islander.]

Write your advertisement without any thought of saving words—just as you would write a letter. Then go over it and mark out superfluous words and cut out statements which you see will not interest the reader. Then mentally place yourself in the position of a customer, as though your interests were cutside of the counter rather than behind it, and consider how the advertisement would appear to you. Look carefully to see whether you have not written in too technical a vein, as a result of knowing all about goods of which your customer has but a superficial knowledge. An alyze the matter thoroughly and see if you have really written for the reader anything more than that, for instance, you have shoes for sale. Have you offered him an attraction in price or novelty? If you have not you had better try again. If the advertisement seems satisfactory it is a good plan to lay it said for a day or two; when you again take it up the wording may not seem as attractive and you can probably improve it. You must not everlook the fact that you are to pay for that advertising, and the expenditure of that money is entitled to as careful consideration as is the matter of clerk hire, rent, the accuracy of a freight bill or any other detail of your business. Carefees advertising is dear at any price.

modern Moloch. There is something heartless in the proposition made by a syndicate to buy the house in which Abraham Lincoln died and to remove it to Chicago, where it will be exhibited for a consideration. That house belongs to the public. Its memories are hallowed by the sufferings of one of the greatest men that ever lived. The State should buy it and keep it where it is. It should never be sacrificed to the insatiable desire for private gain.

The Small-Fruit Industry in England An interesting recent development is that of the small-fruit industry in England. Discouraged from large undertakings in the cultivation of grain, many English farmers have found profitable results in the culture of berries and other small fruit products. Including the orchard lands, where the small fruits are grown between the trees, there are already nearly fifty thousand acres under cultivation, and in the county of Kent alone about fifty thousand persons are now employed as pickers, growers, etc., and more than one hundred and fifty thousand tons of sugar are used annually in the industry. THE STATE DIVISION CRY.

If those northern writers who are persistent in deprecating a State divivision sentiment, which they pretend exists in this section, really wish to see the State united and contented, they should cease their ill-advised and un founded remarks about a state of affairs which exists only in their imagi nations. It is true that, during the oom, among other ambitious projects which came to the front, that of State division received some attention, but whatever little interest was taken in the scheme soon died out and probably nothing more would have been heard of it had not these northern writers sud-denly taken it up as a convenient weapon with which to fight Col. Markham. They have diligently kept this question to the front, in season and out of season, trying to make the citizens of the northern part of the State believe that we of Southern California are really auxious to break away from the great commonwealth and set up for ourselves, when, as a fact, not one per cent. of our people have any such idea in their heads.

These northern politicians are playing a dangerous game. They are handling a two-edged weapon. Their persistent and studied misrepresentations and their attack upon our choice for Governor, not on the ground that he is an unfit man, but upon the false charge that he favors a division of the State cannot but engender a feeling of irritation and bitterness in the south. and, if continued, will give rise to the very condition of affairs which these people pretend to condemn. They are forcing upon us an issue which we do not seek-which we would prefer to avoid-and should the issue ever be joined, it will certainly not be our fault.

Let it be once for all plainly understood that the cry of State division is a false one, raised by certain politicians to defeat the man who is the favorite of the south-and to a large extent of the north-for Governor Such a fight as this is cowardly and despicable. It is bad morals and bad politics. If persisted in, it must inevitably result in the discomfiture of those who are doing this dirty work.

THE PRINTERS AND THE NEWS

Considering the very difficult eircum stances under which they were issued. the Los Angeles papers presented a very creditable appearance yesterday. Where there's a will there's a way. Plenty of willing hands were found to aid in placing the news of the day before the great reading public, and although the papers were rather late, and a trifle disfigured, they were "still in the ring." Today matters journalistic will more nearly approach their normal condition.

The only noteworthy event that occurred yesterday, in connection with the printers' strike, was the receding of the union printers from their unreasonable demand that a contract maintaining existing rates, shall be immediately signed by the proprietors. They are now willing to go to work without any such contract. This is an admission that they have placed them selves in the wrong. This, however, is not sufficient. The printers will have to make several other concessions, before they can be again received into the fold.

THE TIMES intends to maintain its position in this matter; to assert and maintain its independence. The issue has been forced upon us. We have no fight against labor unions. Our attitude on this question, toward trades unions has been consistent, has been frequently demonstrated and needs no excuses Reasonable self-respect and a regard for our own rights have compelled us to take this stand. We are determined to have something to say on the conduct of our own business - in fact, to remain masters of our own business For some time past, the demands of the Los Angeles Typographical Union have been growing more and more exacting, until they bordered closely upon tyranny. They had long passed the confines of reason. which distinguish the relations between employers and employed in other lines of business. The last straw was reached when a well-grounded request for a modification in the present high scale of remuneration was met by an insolent and peremptory "stand and deliver" demand for a contract, within twenty-four hours, maintaining existing rates for a year. There could be but one result of this high-handed action, unless the proprietors were prepared to sacrifice all self-respect and, practically, to turn the management

HOW KEMMLER DIED.

Continued from first p muscles contracted and scraped a small hole in the skin at the base of the thumb on the back of the hand. There was nothing strange in this alone, but the little rupture was dripping blood.

"Turn the current on instantly. The man is not dead," cried Spitzka. Faces grew white and forms fell back from the chair. The warden sprang to the doorway and cried "Turn on the current." But the current could not the doorway and cried "Turn on the current." But the current could notbe turned on. When the signal to stop had come, the operator had pressed the little button which gave the sign to the engineer to stop the dynamo. The dynamo was almost at a standstill and the volt metre registered an almost imperceptible current. The operator sprang to the button and gave a sharp quick signal. There was rapid response, but it was not quick enough to anticipste the signs of reviving consciousness. As the group quick enough to anticipate the signs of reviving consciousness. As the group of horror-stricken witnesses stood help-lessly by, all eyes were fixed on the chair. Kemmler's lips began to drip spittle and in a moment the chest began to move and from the mouth came heavy stertorous sounds, quickened and increasing with respiration. There was no voice but that of the warden was no voice but that of the warde crying to the operator to turn on the current, and the wheezing sound, a half groan, which forced itself past the tightly closed lips, sounded through the still chamber with ghastly distinctness. Some of the witnesses turned away from the sight from the sight.

The scene seemed a long time in reaching the climax. In reality there were but 73 seconds in the interval which elapsed between the moment when the first sound issued from Kemmier's lips until the response to the signal came from the dynamoroom. It came with the same suddenness that marked the first shock which passed through Kemmier's body. The sound which horrified the listeners about the chair was cut off sharply as the body once more became rigid. The slimy ooze still dropped from the mouth and ran slowly down the beard and on to the gray vest. Twice were there wrenches of the body as the electricians in the next room threw the current on and off. There was no mistake this time about the killing. The dynamo was run up to the highest speed, and again the full current of 2000 volts was sent through the body. How long this was kept in action no one knows. To the excited group about the chair it seemed an interminable time. Dr. Daniel, who thought he had an approximate idea of the time at least, said it was four and a half minutes in all. The warden's assistant who stood over the dynamo, said on the record signal the machinery was run only three and a half minutes sil together.

No one was anxious to give the signal to stop. All dreaded the re-ONE FAINTED.

No one was anxious to give the signal to stop. All dreaded the responsibility of offering, to the man a chance to revive or give again at least those appearances of returning animation which startled and sickened the witnesses a few minutes before. As the anxious group stood silently watching the body, auddenly there rose from it

Bearing with it the pungent and sickening odor of a body burning. Again there were cries to stop the current and again the warden sprang to the door and gave a quick order to his assistan. The current was stopped and again there was a relaxation of the body. No doubt this time the current had done its work, if not well at least completely. Dr. Fell who stood by the side of the special correspondent of the Associated Press, turned and said: "Well, there is no doubt about one thing, the man never suffered untold-of pain." In after consultations other physicians expressed the same belief, It was some mitigation of the horrors of the situation to learn this, A WHITE VAPOR of the situation to learn this, but the mitigation was extremely slight when it developed at another point that some doctors disagreed very DOCTORS AT VARIANCE. Was Kemmler dead when the chest moved and the lips gave forth those strange ghastly sounds? Was he breathing or was there an involuntary and phenomenal movement of the chest muscles? Some of the eminent experts in attendance said to an Associated Press correspondent while the body was still warm in the chair that there was no doubt these were signs to Press correspondent while the brist there was still warm in the chair that there was no doubt these were signs of returning animation; that respiration for respiration they believed it to be, was growing stronger, and that in time if the current had not been turned on again he would have revived. Others, among them Dr. Spitzka, stated with equal positiveness of conviction that the first shock killed Kemmlerinstantly. Doctors Daniels and Southwick, the Doctors Daniels and Southwick, the description of point on among witnesses here today is that there is witnesses here today is that there is Octors Daniels and Southwick, the athers of electrocide, believe that cemmler was dead, but they think the current should have been continued correct should have been continued ionger than 17 seconds, which was the official time of the first contact. There is no way in which a positive determination of the question can be made. It will always remain unsolved.

OTHER DETAILS.

Something Wrong with the Machinery--A Bungling Job.

AUBURN, NEW YORK, Aug. 6. ociated Press. | Kemmler had gone peacefully to sleep in the night and had slept soundly and was snoring still at 5 o'clock when he was awakened by one of his guards. Pastor Houghton, who attended Kemmler and Prison Chaplain Yates were with him. They read to him from the Bible and he prayed with them. He dressed himself without aid in a suit of gray mixed goods. His hair he combed and brushed with great care. His shoes were well polished and while he made himself finally tidy the warden and a tall stranger, who is a deputy marshal in Buffalo, entered the cell. The warden Buffalo, entered the cell. The warden explained to Kemmler that he must have the top of his head shaved. The prisoner demurred. He had taken great pains in dressing his hair and beside, as he explained to the warden, he did not want to be distigured. Kemmler's hair is a dark brown and wavy with a hyperion curi that fell on his forehead. Of this he was proud. In the shadow of death his vanity asserted itself. His hair however, was cut, but the curl was saved and, as the sequel proved, with no good results. The shaven spot was 2½ by 1½ inches in size, and was not really shaven but was cropped fairly close.

not really shaven but was cropped fairly close.

While this was proceeding the witnesses examined the chair. The death belt was run by the dynamo, and the incandescent test lamps in the antechamber glowed faintly. "How feebly they burn," exclaimed Dr. MacDonald, who was the only one who got into the ante-room, and that while ignorant of the warden's desire to keep its secrets inviolate. In response to Dr. MacDonald's comment, Electrician Davis remarked that there was "something wrong about the machinery down there," referring to the dynamo end of the circuit. This remark took place before the electricizing. It is well to remember, and was undoubtedly as true a few minutes later when the boit was applied to Kemmler.

The condemned man, after having his hair cut on top his head listened to the reading of the warrant by the warden. When the current was first turned on the least unhappy of all in the room was Dr. Southwick of Buffalo, the father of electricizing in capital cases and who has been studying and been working upon the subject since 1881. "There," he exclaimed, as he strode away from the chair to the knot of witnesses at the other end of the room, "there is the culmination of ten years work and study. We live in a higher civilization from this day. But even while he spoke a quick sharp cry went up from those yet closely watching about the silent figure in the chair. There had been a movement in the breast of the man whom all had believed had died one minute and 47 seconds before. The harrowing scenes attending the second electrocution followed.

The doctors in general declared that lowed.

The doctors in general declared that the man from the very first contact was beyond consciousness and some thought that the action which startled all and sent the war-den away with a white fac-to order the current renewed, was only reflex muscular action. Not so one physician, who declared that he would stake his name that he would would stake his name that he would bring Kemmler back to consciousness and life with brandy and hypodermies. Meantime one of the witnesses, Mr. G. G. Bain of Washington, D. C., had fainted and lay upon the bench where he was being fanued. When finally the electric mask was removed Kemmler's eves were found when finally the electric mask was removed Kemmler's eyes were found to be half closed and without the glassy stare common to eyes in death. The lids were lifted and tests of the pupils with bright light were made. There was no contraction of the pupils. Where the mask had pressed the forehead there was a livid mark, the mark of the law's righteous desceration. The nose and region of its base was a deeply livid hue. Purple spots soon began mottling the hands, arms and suck, and the doctors said he was surely dead. One of the Buffalo doctors seven minutes after the straps were removed cut the skin at the temple for a microscopic specimen of the dead man's blood. It was immediately examined and found slightly coagulated. On the electrodes being withdrawn from contact with the body, hair adhered to the rim of the upper disc. Drs. McDonald and Shrady examined the head. They found there was a deep circular imprint on the top of the head made by the sharp pressure of the electrode's rim. The spot where a tuff of Kemmler's hair had been cut off just before death was found to constitute not more than one-third of the area of contact with the electrode and close examination disclosed that the edges of copper within the electrode had slightly burned within the electrode had slightly burned within the electrode had slightly burned the scalp just where the head had been cut. Had not Kemmler's desire to the scalp just where the head had been cut. Had not Kemmler's desire to avoid disfigurement by the cutting off of his hair prevailed, contact would have been more perfect and the chances of instaneous death would chances of instaneous death would have been very much greater, and possibly the disfigurement which he dreaded would have been avoided. As to the causes of the failure to kill Kemmler instantly, there is said by all physicians to be no doubt that consciousness was stricken from the brain instantly. The fact that he was not instantly killed is the result of improper contact or insufficient voltage or pressure.

was not instantly killed is the result of improper contact or insufficient voltage or pressure.

Warden Durston says 1700 volts were drat applied to Kemmler. When questioned tonight by an Associated Press correspondent if the 20 incandescent lamps on the circuit were burning when the bolt was discharged into the murderer, he stated that they were. They should not have been. The moment before switching the current into Kemmler the test lamps should have been cut off. Each lamp consumes 50 volts, hence 20 took 1000 volts at once out of the current sent to Kemmler. That left 700 volts to cause death. The best authorities state that 15 per cent. of a current is stopped at the points of contact, and that 85 is thus expended in the body. Eighty-five per cent. of the 700 volts not consumed today by the test lamps is 590 volts of pressure. This is not enough to surely kill instantly with good contact and that of today was not perfect. The warden says all was working right this morning, though last night at midnight his appliances were in such order that he was not certain whether the execution would take place today, even though he had summoned his guests to the prison at an early hour this morning. Warden Durston has been through a terrific ordeal, and the knavery of men has here with more light.

The concensus of opinion among witnesses here today is that there is not the slightest doubt that a human being may be instantly killed by 1000 volts applied through a perfect contact and continued 20 seconds.

The body of Kemmler will doubtless be disposed, of tomorrow in the prison burying ground with quick lime to ake Vessels Capsized.-Havoc In the Vicinity of Montreal. MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—By the Associ ated Press. J. A cyclone of violence unparalleled in this locality, swept over Lake St. Louis and the St. Lauren in the vicinity of Montreal, last even ing, doing great damage on land and waser. At the moment when the storm burst the principal event of the Canoe meet of the Isle Cadieux Lake Association, a regatta for firstclass yachts, was being sailed. The competing yachts were a mile out on the lake when suddenly the sky grew black and the wind swept down on the lake with terrific violence. Instantly every yacht in the race was upset. It is not known how many, if any, persons were drowned. At the points of Claire and Dereval great damage was done to property. Houses were unroofed, barns struck by lightning and many buildings were completely swept away At Lachine the greatest damage was At Lachine the greatest damage was done. The immense building of the Dominion Bridge Company and the equally large structures of the Canadian Screw and Barbed-wire Factories were unroofed and left in ruins.

St. Leonard (N. B.) Aug. 6.—A heavy thunder and hail storm accompanied by a cyclone did great damage in the parish of St. Ann's Madwaska county, yesterday. The cyclone covered a territory two miles wide. Thirty-one buildings were blown down as far as heard from. Telegraphic communication is interrupted. Much damage was done to crops.

A NEW PHASE OF THE TARIFF DEBATE

Secretary Blaine's Recent Recipro The benate. Dispute Over Their Interpretation

By Telegraph to The Times.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, (D. C.) Aug. 6.—[By the Associated Press] Senate.—The Senate resumed consideration of the tariff the pending question being on Mr. Morgan's amendment to the paragraph in regard to iron ore.

Mr. Morgan resumed his argument. He spoke at great length is favor of a reduction of the duty on Bessemer ore, having the in course of his remarks colloquies with Messrs Sherman, Cullom, Spencer, Biair and other Senators. Mr Gorman said that with a reduction of the duty on foreign Bessemer ores of the duty on foreign Bessemer ores result would be that steel ships could be built as cheaply in Baltimore as on the Clyde. With that advantage, he said, the prediction of the great Republican Secretary of State would be verified.

Mr. Frye said: "The Secretary of State has been quoted in the Senate as arguing that the McKinley Bill did not in any of its features open up markets. Now the Secretary of State was dealing in that letter entirely with foreign and not home markets. It is the purpose of the protective tariff to create a home market, which is worth infinitely more than any foreign market, and that was undoubtedly the market, and that was undoubtedly the Secretary of worth infinitely more than any foreign market, and that was undoubtedly the understanding of the Secretary of State, and not a purpose to reflect at all on the McKinley Bill, except so far as there was nothing in it intended to open up foreign markets, and he de-sired to have something put in it in the way of reciprocity by which foreign way of reciprocity by which foreign markets might be opened up. Mr. Gray spoke of the remarkable gloss put by Mr. Frye on Mr. Blaine's etter, and he went on to read extracts from the letter to show that Mr. Frye's interpretation of it was not the natu-

Mr. Blaine had simply criticised it be-cause the free sugar provision was not accompanied with a provision that would open up the markets of South American countries to the products of American farms. There was no other criticism made by Mr. Blaine on the McKinley Bill and he himself sympathized strongly in that criticism.

Gibson denied the statement that Mr. Blaine's letter referred to sugar alone and asserted it referred also to hides, wool and ores. The Secretary of State stood committed, Mr. Gibson of State stood committed, Mr. Gibson said, to the broad policy of reciprocity, with the South American and Central American States.

Mr. Morgan withdrew his amendment, in order to allow Mr. Gorman to offer an amendment reducing the duyon iron ore from 75 to 50 cents per ton.

Mr. Plumb moved to amend the amendment by making the rate 60 cents.

Mr. Gorman accepted the amendment.
The amendment was rejected—yeas,

House Mr. Reed of Iowa presented the conference report on the Original Package Bill. The report leaves the bill exactly as it passed the Senate and is dissented from by Mr. Oates of Alabama, one of the conference.

After debate the conference report was adopted—yeas, 120 nays 95.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the General Deficiency Bill, but without disposing of the bill the committee rose and the House adjourned.

Fair Postponed GRASS VALLEY, Aug, 6-The fair for the Seventeenth Agricultural District, composed of Nevada county, will tonight be postponed from the 19th of this month until September 23d. The postponement is because of the back-wardness of fruit crops this year, which would prevent a proper display in August. The race entries will be held open until the 15th of September.

Secretary Noble Gives an Assurance That California's "Big Trees" Shall be Protected From Settler's Depredations.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—[By the Associated Press.] The Tribune's special from Cape May says: "The President and Secretary Blaine leave for their homes soon. As a result of their conference the President will send a message to the Senate, or if not a State paper, a verbal message recommending the Senate to adopt the Aldrich amendment to the McKinley Bill, which rests discretionary power in the President to suspend the operations of custom duties whenever he shall deem it wise to do so or when other countries reciprocate.

It can be stated authoritatively that the work of the conference resulted in a victory for Blaine. The President fought against the scheme of his Secretary upon many grounds. It is said it has been agreed that Blaine will not interfere with the passage of the "Force Bill."

Probably no system of practi-ployed has been so universally si-that introduced by Dr. Williams 2 of Catarrh. Throat Diseases, Asthma and Consument eareful; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of catarrh seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear and he learns to his herror, that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sonse of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking ar singing; hoarseness at times cocurs, a sensation of dryness is felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, are income a sense of languar and fatigue; the breath lessens on a little exertion, a short, backing cough, a peculiar sound in, clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work.

CONSUMPTION,

The earlier symptoms of consumption consist in a weariness at times or a disposition to remain passive, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effects of cold: also breathlessness upon moving or ascending a hilf or stairs, a slight, backing cough, with or without expectoration, flying pains throughout the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. These symptoms are more noticeable toward or in the night, slight fever in the afternoon. Cold feet and bands and in many cases a blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger nails. It is unnecessary to give the symptoms in the more advanced stages of consumption, as there is scarcely a family in our State wherein less according a family in our State wherein less according a family in our State wherein less according a second for a greater or less degree.

What Green Prunes Are Worth.

What Green Prunes Are Worth.

[Pomona Progress.]

Nearly all of the prune crop in this valley has been contracted for and bought. The picking and delivering of the fruit will begin in a few days more. All kinds of prices have been contracted for the crop, and the conditions of the contracts are as varied as the prices. Some fruit-growers, who could not wait, sold two months ago for $27 and $30 a ton for prunes delivered; others sold for $32 and $33 a ton on the trees. Then $35 a ton was paid for some orchards, the seller to deliver the fruit. When July 1st came the prune-growers who had not sold generally made up their minds on $40 a ton for their fruit.

Last week the highest prices for green prunes were reached. C. A. Loud has bought of C. D. Ambrose all of the prune crop on the Bradbury place for $45 a ton delivered.

The California Wild Cherry.

[California.] California possesses a native ever-green cherry tree which bears both green cherry tree which bears both large and fair fruit. On the Santa Barbara islands this cherry grows to great dimensions and makes a very superior tree. The cherries compare in size very favorably with our cuttivated varieties of cherries, but they have large stones and less meat. But every horticulturist knows how thorough cultivation and seeding poorer varieties may be improved, and there is no doubt that our wild cherry is capable of being greatly improved in quality. In Southern California this cherry should be experimented with. At the time the fruit is ripe the best trees should be selected and the largest and best fruit from them should be collected and planted. ball game at Redondo.

Of late a great many residents have been in the habit of depositing refuse, garbage or manure, on vacant lots within the city limits. This nuisance should be stopped, as it not only makes a bad appearance, but it is injurious to the health. Ordinance No. 18 strictly forbids this practice.

since her return.

Dr. Chester Rowell of Fresno, a candidate for the position of Congressman from this district on the Republican ticket, was in the city yesterday.

Messrs. Crandall and Whiteside have just returned with a large number of photographic views of camp life and beautiful scenery in the Puente hills. While there they were the guests of Arturo Bandini.

Captain Chipman Taylor of the ship Date Palms for California.

[Fruit Grower.]

We have been informed by a correspondent of Prof. H. E. Van Deman that there are at this time two consignments of date palm plants en route from Northern Africa. A portion of these will be distributed to the best advantage in California. It is certainly boped that the plants will arrive in good condition, as it is the most promising attempt that has been made to introduce the improved varieties of date palms in the United States. It will take some years to propagate sufficient stock to plant large groves, but, in time, a new, remunerativ industry will be developed. Slowly, but surely, California is developing valuable crops, which are capable of giving sustenance and revenue to a dense population. Who is there so sanguine as to predict the possibilities of our great State.

Apricots, $185 Per Acre.

[Pomotropie,]
The possibilities of making money by fruit raising in any of the horticultural localities of Southern California are strikingly illustrated in the following report, which we can place before our readers as absolutely correct:

W. B. Wilson of Sau Francisco spent a pleasant day in town with his family.

Chief Engineer Perris of the Santa Fé arrived from the East yesterday william Forbes, living two miles south of Azusa, has an apricot orchard containing just 4½ acres. He has gathered and marketed 2½ tons at a uniform price of $25 per ton and has $612.50 cash. Some of the same fruit got over-ripe and he was compelled to dry it at home. This part he has recently sold for $150 cash making $712.50 the total revenue for the orchard or almost avactly $155 per acre. morning.

H. H. Wilcox of Los Angeles was in town yesterday, visiting the different polititions. Mr. Herbert Brown, a representative of the Tucson Daily Citizen, arrived in Pasadena yesterday to join his family. ASSESSMENT BOOKS OPEN.

The assessment books are now on file in the City Clerk's office and will be open to the inspection of all taxpayers, who are requested to call and examine their interest, so that if there is any complaint to make they can report to the Board of Equalization, which meets in the council room on Monday, August 11, at 10 a.m. most exactly $185 per acre.

Fruit Handling.

So long as fruit is on tree, vine or plant, and growing, living, it is kept comparatively cool, be the surrounding atmosphere ever so warm naturally. This coolness is kept up by evaporation from the surface of the trnit, and the moisture for the evaporation is supplied by the roots up through the body, branches and twigs to the fruit. So soon as the fruit is plucked from the tree, or it has become dead ripe, this supply is at once cut off, and the fruit becomes of the temperature surrounding it, and the process of ripening or decay at once begins, if the fruit is mature enough. As proof, a Bartlett pear, onehalf, or even one third grown, may be plucked from the tree and ripen up fine and mellow in a warm, confined place, in a few days. But if that same pear was at once placed in cold storage, and there kept at a standy tamperature of thurks detailed. [Petaluma Courier.]

warm, confined place, in a few days. But if that same pear was at once placed in cold storage, and there kept at a steady temperature of thirty-five degrees, it would not perceptibly ripen in a year, and if kept at a steady temperature of 45 degrees, it would gradually ripen up in six or eight months. Fruit grown where irrigation is needed, is, as a rule, grown where summer heat is great. Therefore the utmost care in handling it should be taken, or it is liable to become too warm at some times, and ripen prematurely. Two boxes of peaches exactly alike are gathered at the same time, one left in the hot sun for one hour after packing, the other kept constantly in the shade, until both are placed in the car and shipped to New York, and kept cool while en route. Of one, the rruit would surely ripen and smell on the way, the other go through in fine condition. Therefore truit grown in hot interior valleys, from the time it is taken from the tree until it is packed in the car, should be kept constantly cool — the cooler the better. The heat of the sun should never be allowed to touch it for a. moment.

Col. Bob Ingersoll said the other day to a reporter of the Rochester Union:

"I believe in protecting what are called the Infant industries, but after those infants' get to be six feet high and war No. 12 boots it is about time to stor rocking the cradle especially

Col. Bob Ingersoll said the other day to a reporter of the Rochester Union: "I believe in protecting what are called the infant industries, but after those infants' get to be six feet high and wear No. 12 boots it is about time to stop rocking the cradle, especially when the 'infant' tells you it you stop rocking he will get out of the cradle and kick your head off."

and kick your head off."

It has been asked who will be the chairman of the convention at Sacramento, says the San Francisco Post. Felton has been proposed, and the suggestion has been accepted with much enthusiasm, but he is at Long Branch, and probably will not return for the convention. Mr. Estee has been proposed also. Ex-Senator A. P. Williams has been talked of, and he is probably the man who will get the honor. Some of Morrow's friends talk of Reuben Lloyd, the delegate-at-large from this city.

In 1884 Blaine received a majority in 8an Francisco of 4307, eleven Republican supervisors were elected by from 1000 to 4000 majority, while Pond was the only Democratic supervisor elected, and by a majority of 5890, or 1583 majority over Blaine.

BROADER AND BETTER LIST THAN USUAL

The Secret of Low Prices Is for the Merchant to Know and His Customers to Profit By.

It is quite a mistaken idea to suppose a bargain cannot be appreciated by customers. People are generally better judges of goods than the sellers of them, and often times we learn considerable by listening to people before our counters who are the real users of the materials. We never speak of a bargain unless we have one, and having bargains and trade that understands the value of bargains, we always find ready response to the list of items we place on sale each day.

To-day we have a broader and better list than usually. Many valuable things that are offered to-day for the first time in our bargain list. Read each item over carefully, and be on hand early if there are any amongst them you desire.
